

approaching your collaboration with care

Use this framework to reflect upon the intersecting components that can help shape plans centering attentiveness, spaciousness, self-care and accountability for your community collaborations.

Attentiveness: What relationships between design and the impact it has on communities do I need to pay attention to?

Spaciousness: What assumptions, biases or limited beliefs, about myself and/or the communities I'm working with, can I let go of?

Self-care: What activities will nourish my mind and body throughout this process?

Accountability: What people, processes or tools will support intentional reflection and evaluation?